DETAILED ACTION

Election/Restrictions

This application contains claims directed to the following species regarding the manner in which it is determined whether an input audio signal satisfies an audio event threshold:

- I. Determining by continuously monitoring a voltage level of the input audio signal and comparing monitored level to a voltage level threshold as seen in figures 4, 5 and 7 and recited in claims 4, 7-9 and 16.
- II. Determining by continuously converting the input audio signal to digital audio data, analyzing the digital audio data to produce a frequency characterization and comparing the frequency characterization to a frequency domain template as seen in figures 4-6 and recited in claims 5, 10, 17 and 24.
- III. Determining by continuously converting the input audio signal to digital audio data, analyzing the digital audio data to produce a time domain characterization and comparing the time domain characterization to a time domain component as seen in figures 4-6 and recited in claims 6, 10, 18-20 and 24.

The species are independent or distinct because they are disclosed as composing different embodiments of the same step or apparatus component, i.e., they describe independent inventions. Because these inventions are independent and there would be a serious burden on the examiner if restriction is not required because the inventions have acquired a separate status in the art due to their recognized divergent subject matter, restriction for examination purposes as indicated is proper.

Applicant is required under 35 U.S.C. 121 to elect a single disclosed species for prosecution on the merits to which the claims shall be restricted if no generic claim is finally held to be allowable. Currently, claims 1-3, 11-15 and 21-23 are generic.

Applicant is advised that a reply to this requirement must include an identification of the species that is elected consonant with this requirement, and a listing of all claims readable thereon, including any claims subsequently added. An argument that a claim is allowable or that all claims are generic is considered nonresponsive unless accompanied by an election.

Upon the allowance of a generic claim, applicant will be entitled to consideration of claims to additional species which depend from or otherwise require all the limitations of an allowable generic claim as provided by 37 CFR 1.141. If claims are added after the election, applicant must indicate which are readable upon the elected species. MPEP § 809.02(a).

Applicant is advised that the reply to this requirement to be complete must include (i) an election of a species or invention to be examined even though the requirement be traversed (37 CFR 1.143) and (ii) identification of the claims encompassing the elected invention.

The election of an invention or species may be made with or without traverse. To reserve a right to petition, the election must be made with traverse. If the reply does not distinctly and specifically point out supposed errors in the restriction requirement, the election shall be treated as an election without traverse.

Should applicant traverse on the ground that the inventions or species are not patentably distinct, applicant should submit evidence or identify such evidence now of record showing the inventions or species to be obvious variants or clearly admit on the record that this is the case. In either instance, if the examiner finds one of the inventions unpatentable over the prior art, the evidence or admission may be used in a rejection under 35 U.S.C.103(a) of the other invention.
